

APPENDIX D3. MAINE FOREST SERVICE FIRE CONTROL REGIONS

The Maine Forest Service (a.k.a. Bureau of Forestry) in the Department of Conservation has divided the state into three regions (Northern, Central, and Southern) for forest fire control administration. Each region is divided into management districts. The Appalachian Trail in Maine spans all three regions, but the portion in the Northern Region lies entirely within Baxter State Park, so information for that region is not included in the following listing. For information on forest fire control laws and jurisdictions, refer to sections III.F, V.B.3, and Appendix D2 of this Plan.
